Save Money And Protect One Of Your Most Valuable Investments

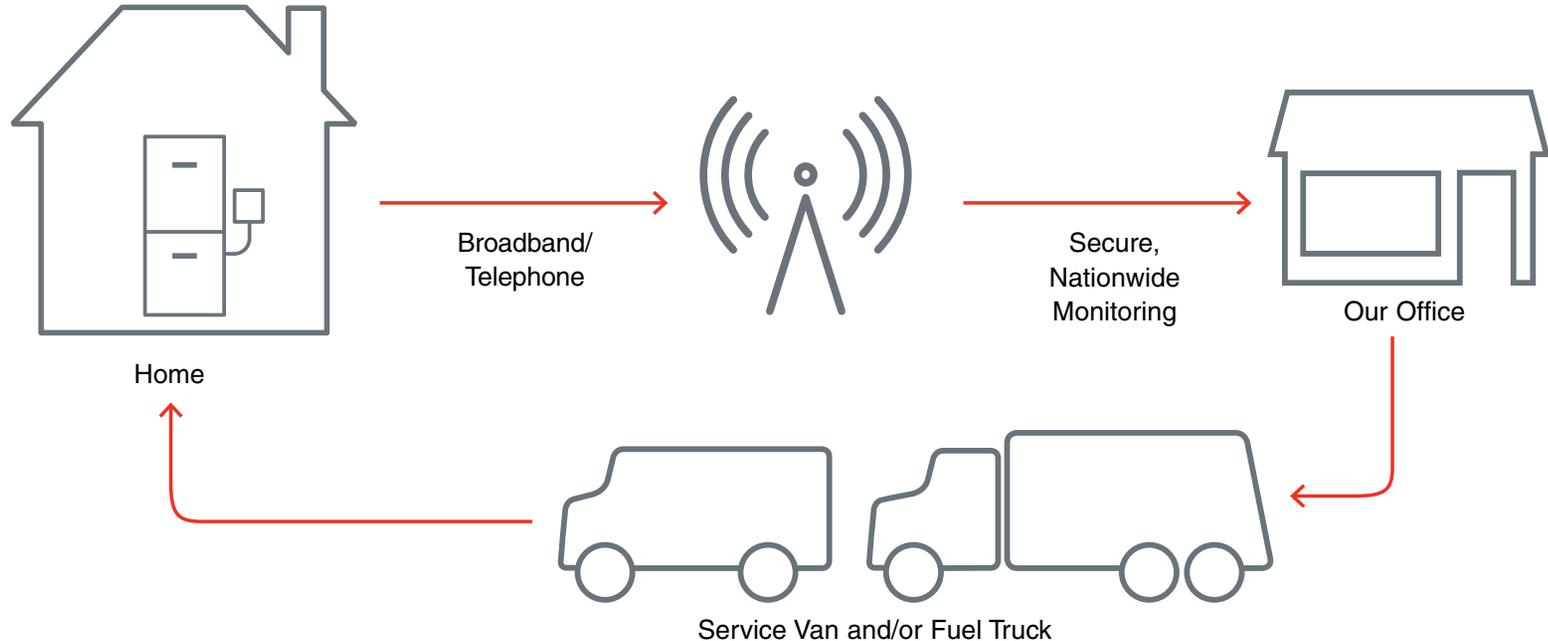

Honeywell EnviraLINK® is like having us on call 24 hours a day.

EnviraLINK® is a communication and remote diagnostic service that securely links your heating system with our office. We'll be able to monitor your system to:

- Know exactly when you need oil, so you won't have to worry about running out
- Ensure that your burner is performing for maximum energy efficiency
- Know when maintenance is needed and respond quickly, more than likely before you even notice there's a problem

All you do is relax.

You won't have to monitor your oil use or your heating system's operation — EnviraLINK does it all for you. And since the connection between your home and our office is routed through a Honeywell nationwide monitoring system, you don't have to have any concerns about reliability. All you do is enjoy the comfort of your home, along with the savings and peace of mind you'll get from a secure, continuously monitored system.

EnviraLINK® uses the EnviraCOM™ protocol built into your heating and cooling equipment to diagnose your oil and maintenance needs and then reports to us anytime, day or night.
